

You are logged in as: Noor Ghazal Aswad
2020F - COMM3330001 - nghzlswd

Positive characteristics or strengths of the course/instructor

The Professor is very proficient in the art and science of rhetoric. She is very experienced at writing and conducting research at a professional level and at teaching these skills to students.

AWESOME!!! LOVE HER!!!

The PowerPoints were great as were the workbook exercises. I felt both helped me learn and pulled out information I really needed to know. The structure of the course was very nice. I like that we started on our projects earlier in the semester compared to the first time I took Research Methods. Communication was frequent and I was always able to get 1 on 1 help when I needed it. Your reassuring nature really helped me pull through this semester.

The structure of the course was wonderful and extremely helpful, especially during these times.

Ms. Ghazal Aswad is awesome! She was always willing to help and had great feedback.

Professor Aswad is: Genuine Encouraging Compassionate Engaging Dedicated

An amazing teacher! She helped me with writing more than any English teacher I've had. She takes time out of her day to email back ASAP, have 1 on 1 meetings with me whenever I was stuck or lost. Never was rude when I didn't get something, and honestly could tell she was actually there for me and wanted me to succeed. 10/10

Criticisms concerning the course/instructor

No criticism there.

Nothing, just wish we could've had class in person.

Additional comments and suggestions

Communication Research Methods is an advanced course in professional research and in writing. Students entering Communication Research Methods should prepare to really push themselves to exceed what they believe are their limitations.

I had to take Research Methods twice and my second go around was much better. You and Lydia are a great team!

Loved this course and Professor Aswad is the Best!

She made this course online and amazing. Most organized class I had during COVID, no complaints.